

WILBER WALKER TO HELP DIRECT MERCHANTS' BODY

Wilber Walker, for more than a score of years secretary of the Merchants' Exchange, has resigned that position to become assistant to the president of the same organization. Charles Horando, of the San Francisco-Oakland Terminal Railways, will succeed him September 1.

What the Exchange regards as one of the most important sessions of the year has been set for September 28, when shippers, manufacturers, warehousemen, business men and others interested are asked to attend a traffic meeting. Questions affecting the city's waterfront development, switching rates, and general transportation conditions will be discussed.

It was announced that the annual party for children, the aged, and for indigents would be held this year in Pantages theater shortly after the opening of the schools in Oakland. The San Francisco-Oakland Terminal Railways has offered to supply cars to bring the guests to the theater.

The question of a new city directory was considered. Publishers ex-

Food Price Boost to Follow Rail Rate Jump, Say Dealers

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—Consumers may expect a slight increase in prices of food commodities produced within California—such as butter, eggs, vegetables and fruit—as a result of the increase in freight rates within the state granted by the California railway commission, but there is no cause for great worry, A. C. McKibbin, traffic manager of the San Francisco Produce Exchange, indicated today.

As McKibbin saw the situation the effects of the increase will be these:

FOOD TO ABSORB INCREASE. The higher freight rates, amounting to 25 per cent increase, will be absorbed in prices of food commodities immediately.

The railroads will be enabled to pay employees better wages and by a gradual process of attrition can command better workmen.

Employment of a better class of labor in handling food en route to market will result in products arriving in better condition and the elimination of a part of the damage in transit.

Higher rates will prevent shipment of some classes of commodities, plained that at present cost of paper and printing, and solicitors' fees, publication was almost prohibitory.

W. B. Strel, P. N. Hanrahan and W. P. Scott were appointed to investigate.

prices for which will not stand high freight, which will reduce slightly total shipments and help relieve congestion.

Eventually, by a slow process of adjustment, these conditions will work to the benefit of the consumer, by giving him his food in better condition and in shorter time from field to dinner table, according to McKibbin.

DEALERS EXPLAIN.

"Undoubtedly there will be an effort on price as a result of the rate increases," McKibbin said, "but on the other hand, not all food commodities produced within California and sold on California markets, are handled by freight."

"The large proportion of shipments of perishables are handled by express and much is handled by motor truck."

Frank H. Fernald, assistant to the chairman of the Association of railway executives, went more into figures.

"If the cost of living is raised more than two per cent by the increased freight charges it will be plain that middlemen and retailers are taking an unfair advantage of the public," he declared.

KOREANS PLOT TO HOLD U.S. CONGRESSMEN

TOKYO, Aug. 18 (by the Associated Press).—Press advices from Seoul, Korea, allege widespread Korean plots to hold the party of American congressmen visiting the Far East to create complications between Japan and America.

The advices report the arrest of Yang Keul Talk, once convicted and imprisoned for an attempt to assassinate former Premier Field Marshal Terauchi, and also ten other Koreans charged with political and Japanese intrigue and participation in the plot against American congressmen.

The Korean governor-general in a statement says the situation is well in hand and declares that numerous arrests have been made of agitators.

Four-Year-Old Boy Killed By Oil Truck

Richard Myers, 4½ years old, who lived with his parents at 823 Sixtieth street, was run down and instantly killed this morning while playing in front of his home by a Union Oil Company truck. Witnesses of the accident declare it was unavoidable.

The driver of the truck is David Daniels, 1047 Arlington street. He will be arrested on a technical charge of manslaughter.

ADDICT OF DRUG DIES; WOMAN IS HELD BY POLICE

With the death of Wendell Bouque, 34, at the Emergency Hospital today following his arrest early this morning in a police raid on an alleged opium joint at 114 Franklin street, Gertrude Wright, alias Gertrude Bouque, who says she is the wife of Bouque, is being held by the police. The pair were arrested at 3 o'clock this morning by Sergeant J. J. Sherry and Patrolman Frank J. Curran after their apartment had been forcibly broken into. The police say the two were crazed by drugs and offered a desperate resistance.

OVERDOSE OF MORPHINE

Bouque died into unconsciousness after he was placed in the patrol wagon, was found at the hospital to be suffering from an overdose of drugs. He died shortly before noon.

When the report of his death was flashed to the police station, Captain of Inspectors James T. Drew immediately ordered that the woman be held without bail.

"We were using dope last night," she told the police, "and he seemed to have taken too much morphine. He was on the couch and seemed to be suffering, so I gave him a dose of cocaine we had in the place, thinking it would neutralize the effect of the morphine and revive him."

WOMAN TELLS STORY
"Instead, it made him worse and then I became frightened and began to scream. Shortly after that the police broke into our apartment and that is all I know about it."

The young woman is said by the police to have long been a prominent figure in the ring which is engaged in the drug traffic in Oakland and San Francisco.

The police say they find it hard to understand why she should have given Bouque an extra dose of drug when he was already suffering from an overdose. She will be questioned further this afternoon.

Hand Grenades Block Forest Blaze's Path

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 18.—High winds are spreading and rekindling big blazes at Wenatchee, Diamond Lake, Wash.; Orofino, Idaho, and in Flathead forest, Mont. Four wild blazes are sweeping Flathead forest. Firefighters can do nothing to stop the onrush of flames. Nearly 300 men are fighting fires at Orofino, where there is a big blaze in the Clearwater forest. Five hundred men are fighting the fire at Wenatchee, where there are three of the worst fires in the history of that section. All-Idle men have been drafted to combat the flames. Hand grenades are being used successfully in checking fires at Loom Lake, Wash., where a copper mine was endangered.

Appeal of Merchant In Contempt Denied

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—An appeal to the State Supreme Court here to suspend a contempt judgment and a sentence of five days in jail and $500 fine against Louis Fontanelli, a San Diego merchant, was denied by the court today.

Fontanelli was cited for his failure to turn over the books of a corporation, in which he was an officer, to its new owners. He disregarded a subsequent court order to turn over the books and was given the contempt sentence, which the Supreme Court upheld. The telegraphic appeal was sent from San Diego.

Power Shortage Is Feared; Conference Set for Tomorrow

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—Users of electric power in northern and central California are facing an acute shortage, according to H. G. Butler, state power administrator, who today wired all companies reselling power to send a representative to a conference to be held here tomorrow.

Butler's telegram informed the companies that it is proposed to cut delivery to resale companies by 15 per cent and to harmonize restrictions placed on the consumers of resale companies with the restrictions placed on the consumers of generating companies.

Butler also sent letters of warning to street railway companies, gold dredgers and cement manufacturers, directing them to submit plans for curtailment of consumption.

Individual users of electricity are urged to conserve.

According to Butler, the recent hot wave was the last severe condition to make imperative general co-operation among power producers and consumers in conserving power producing assets now available.

Tomorrow's conference, it was said, will have no bearing upon the larger power producing agencies as they, for some time, have been governed by restrictions.

On motion of Attorney Henry Skinner, the case was referred to the probation officer by Judge W. M. Finch for a report.

Seen to have left the hotel with a handbag by the clerk of the hotel, Leola Frye was traced by the police. When arrested she at first denied the theft, but is reported to have later confessed.

CHANGE IN COURT RULES IS URGED

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—Removal of felony cases from police court jurisdiction, a reduction of the number of police courts from four to three, increase in judge's salary from $8,000 to $6,000 a year and prohibition from private practice and extending of the term of office from four to six years, are measures recommended by a special committee of the Civic League of Improvement Clubs and Associations, as an amendment to the police court scandal.

Courtney L. Moore, chairman of the special investigating committee representing the League, the Commonwealth Club and the former Grand Jury, said that the removal of police court cases from the police courts to the Superior Courts in felony cases would strike at one of the causes of graft.

Others of the special committee were George Skaller, E. A. Walcott, secretary of the Commonwealth Club; Jesse C. Allan, former Grand Juror; Eugene Pfeiffer, James P. Sweeney, George W. Gerhard and Emilio Lastrucci.

Whether disbarment proceedings would strip Police Judges Oppenheim and Sullivan automatically from their political jobs was a question discussed today by the Bar Association.

The Mayor with the consent of fourteen of the eighteen supervisors may file charges and suspend the judges, according to charter provision.

WHEART and HIS HUSBAND

by ADELE GARRISON

WHAT DICKY SUGGESTED AFTER MAJOR GRANTLAND HAD HELPED TO REVIVE MADGE.

"For what seemed a very long time I sat on a bank by the roadside while the two men took stock of damage done, and repaired minor injuries. At last I saw Dicky shake his head ruefully.

"It's the garage for my boat," he said dolefully, "I wonder where the nearest one is."

"Just a mile back in the next village," Maj. Grantland responded promptly. "I'll run down at once and send a man back."

"I'm mighty glad you're able to navigate your ship," Dicky said. "But it's a shame to put you to all this trouble."

"Let me worry about that, my dear chap," the other returned heartily. Then as his glance traveled toward me his voice and manner changed. "Look to Mrs. Graham," he called, starting toward me. "I am afraid she is ill."

I wondered idly, with what faculty I had left to wonder, why Hugh Grantland and not my husband had been first to notice my illness.

I had not realized in the first excitement of the accident that I had been subjected to an unusual shock. That so, before Dicky's arm and arms could snail me the steering wheel had struck my side violently. I had not noticed it at first, but as I sat by the roadside watching the two men at work upon the car I began to feel more and more pain, and by the time Major Grantland looked up at me I was woefully hurt and ill.

"At the officer's words Dicky looked sharply at me, then both men hurried toward me.

"What is it, sweetheart?" "I fear you are ill, Mrs. Graham."

DICKY'S PLAN. Outwardly, one was the anxious quest of a husband, the other the conventional courtesy of an acquaintance. Yet through my patient and faintness I recognized the same drawn, tense note in both queries, and realized that one man was no less worried than the other.

I rallied myself with an effort. I have a horror of the helpless-clinging type of woman, who faints at every accident, and I tried to make my voice strong and usual.

"I am absolutely all right," I said. With the cheerful accustomed acceptance of husbands, Dicky's face cleared.

"Are you sure?" he asked perfunctorily, then he added enthusiastically, "I have it! Grantland, I wonder if it would trouble you too much to take Mrs. Graham along with you?" You can leave the car in the next town, and then I can go there after her. She can perhaps find a place to lie down."

Major Grantland hesitated for only the fraction of a second. But I knew that for some reason he did not wish to grant Dicky's request. Then his face set into the grim lines I knew so well, and he said to me with the funny, little, awkward manner which had made me sure when I first met him that he was unused to the society of women.

"I am only too happy to be of service to Mrs. Graham. But if I am to assume charge I must insist upon her taking a bit of first-aid treatment with me. She had a greater shock than we realize."

His hesitation before the pronoun pointed his meaning so clearly that I wondered if Dicky could fail to catch it. If he had caught it, however, he could not have made his meaning clearer.

But Dicky was either obtuse or preserved a poker face, for he laughed lightly.

"If it is the right kind of 'first aid,' I wouldn't mind being revived myself."

"Unfortunately, I am not provided with that variety," the officer answered, and in another minute or two with swift, deft movements he had produced a small drinking cup, a bottle of water and a bottle of tiny vial from which he carefully poured a few drops of liquid.

Then he crossed to me and bent toward me.

"Drink it quickly," he said to me, and I knew that he had observed the faintness which my husband had failed to see.

I drained it obediently, and lifted my eyes to his searching, anxious ones as I returned the cup. But there was a gleam in them that made me drop mine again.

"Thank you," I murmured, and was furious to find myself as tongue-tied and embarrassed as a schoolgirl.

He made no reply, simply stood waiting until the color came back to my face. I knew it had returned, for I felt my cheeks burning. The pungent revivifier he had given me was certainly a potent one. In a few minutes the terrible dizziness I had felt completely disappeared, although the pain in my side remained.

"Whenever you are ready," he said, quietly.

"I'm ready now," I returned, and he quickly put out his hand to help me up.

I looked around for Dicky, and saw him standing by the side of our car, evidently taking stock of the injury. He wheeled quickly as we approached him.

"Well, old dear, you don't look as if you required any 'first aid' now," he said cheerily. "I wish I had some of that dope, Grantland, to give this car. She certainly needs first aid."

"We'll send a surgeon back," Major Grantland promised, as he assisted me into the front seat of the machine. I wondered why he did not put me in the tonneau. It was certainly not want of thought, for he made the cushioned seat still more comfortable with a folded robe. I saw Dicky's eyebrows go up, and had a sudden distaste and shrinking for the little corner.

ROMANCE HUNOR PATHOS ROMANCE

Story a day

Springtime a la Carte Copyright, 1920, by Doubleday, Page & Co. Published by special arrangement with the Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.

It was a day in March, never, never begin a story this way when you were one. No opening could possibly be worse. It is unimaginable, flat, dry and likely to consist of mere wind. But in this instance it is allowable. For the following paragraph, which should have inaugurated the narrative, is too wildly extravagant and preposterous to be flaunted in the face of the reader without preparation.

Sarah was crying over her bill of fare. Think of a New York girl shedding tears on the menu card!

To account for this you will be allowed to guess that the lobster was all out, or that she had sworn ice-cream off during Lent, or that she had ordered omelets for breakfast and just come from a breakfast restaurant. And then all these theories being wrong, you will please let the story proceed.

The gentleman who announced that the world was an oyster which he would serve with his sword was a larger bit than he deserved. It is not difficult to open an oyster with a sword. But did you expect any one to open the terrestrial bivalve with a typewriter? Like to wait for a dozen raw oysters that way?

Sarah had managed to pry apart the shells with her unhandy weapon fast enough to enable a bit of cold and clammy water when she knew no more shorthand than if she had been a graduate in stenography just let slip upon the world by a business college. So, not being able to "tenog" the menu, she could not read the list of office talent. She was a freelance typewriter and canvassed for odd jobs of copying and shorthand.

The most brilliant and crowning feat of Sarah's battle with the world was the deal she made with Schulerberg's Home Restaurant. The restaurant was next door to the old red brick house in which she had lived, and she had been dining at Schulerberg's 40-cent five-course table for a week or so. She had been eating the five-basille of the colored gentleman's hand. Sarah took away with her the bill of fare, which was in an almost unreadable script neither English nor German, and so arranged that if you had not seen her you began with a toothpick and rice pudding and ended with soup and the day of the week.

The next day Sarah showed Schulerberg a neat card on which the menu of the restaurant was written with the various temptingly marbled under their right and proper heads. "I have done this for you," she said, "and I am sure you will be pleased to accept it." Schulerberg became a naturalized citizen on the spot. He gave her a key to his room, and she was to have a new bill for each day's dinner, and new ones for breakfast and lunch. In return for this Schulerberg was to have her as a typewriter in his hall room, if possible, and furnish her with a pen and a pencil. If what Fate had in store for Schulerberg's customers on the morrow.

Mutual satisfaction resulted from the agreement. Schulerberg's patrons now knew what the food they ate was called even if its nature sometimes puzzled them. And Sarah knew so well, and he was so sure, which was the main thing with her. And then the almanac lied, and said that spring had come. Spring comes when it comes. The frozen snows of winter melt, and the hand-organists still played in "The Good Old Summertime," with their December vivacity and expression. Men began to make thirty-day notes to buy Easter dresses. Janitors shut off steam and when the cold dull winter which was the main thing with her. MESSAGES CHEER TRIUMPH AFTER 70-YEAR BATTLE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Congratulations on the final success of the women's fight for the right to vote are being poured in on Alice Paul, president of the National Woman's Suffrage Association, which directed the fight for suffrage here, said today.

"For the country and the world, this victory means this government which purports to be 'by the people' is indeed by the people and not half of them."

"The battle the suffrage victory means opportunity for more work and added responsibility. It is too belated to come with a shock or surprise. We have been ready for it. We are ready for the work that lies ahead."

Representative CHAMP CLARK, former speaker of the House—Today marks the triumph of the struggle for a cause which has always had right and justice on its side. You are to be congratulated on the victory of your courageous struggle. The women have won the right to vote. The fight in the face of repeated discouragements, of rebuffs and even of persecution, deserve the highest credit. The whole country rejoices in their victory and in the triumph of a great cause.

Representative MONDALL, majority floor leader—Let me congratulate you as a leader of the National Woman's party and through you the women of the country, on this triumphant ending of your long and difficult struggle for political equality. Republicans will always be proud of the fact that their party has stood on the side of justice and fair dealing in urging the enfranchisement of the American women. We welcome our newly enfranchised citizens to their rightful share in the government of the country.

TORNEY GENERAL PALMER—Political democracy has become today a real fact in the United States through the victory of women. The country is proud of the country are to be congratulated on the success of their long and strenuous fight. The country is proud of its newly enfranchised citizens and ashamed only of the length and difficulty of the struggle which they have had to wage to secure what was obviously their right.

Officers and leaders of the National Woman's party made the following statement on the final victory of the suffrage amendment: "After 70 years of the most difficult and exhaustive struggle, after the expenditure of millions of dollars, after repeated arrests and jail sentences, American women have at last won political equality. Hard as the struggle has been, however, women do not take the struggle back over the efforts necessary to win the vote. They will at once turn their faces toward the future, planning how to use it. Now that the goal has been reached, it is determined to overcome the other handicaps placed upon them."

MRS. LAWRENCE LEWIS, treasurer of the National Woman's party, said: "We are glad to see the work of raising funds for the suffrage fight, begun years ago and carried up to the very day of victory by the National Woman's party alone has raised and spent almost $1,000,000 since its formation in 1913. All of this money has been spent in action for the federal suffrage amendment, first for its passage through Congress and then for its ratification. Women have given willingly and generously to the struggle for their political emancipation, but they have given with a constant feeling of rebellion at the necessity for such long-continued sacrifice on behalf of their rights. Now having finally completed the struggle, they are free at last to enter the political life of their country and to take their part in shaping its destinies."

MRS. ABBY SCOTT BAKER, executive chairman National Woman's party—Politicians have used against women every weapon in the political arsenal. The women of this country have proved by their triumph today that they are able to defeat the politicians at their own game, to secure the triumph of a great cause in spite of every kind of opposition.

MABEL VERNON, secretary National Woman's party—The ratification of the federal suffrage amendment by the thirty-sixth state American women have at last secured the full suffrage for all women.

Younger women asked that the proclamation be issued as soon as official notification of ratification is received in order that women may participate in the preliminary now being held in many states.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—An appeal to Secretary of State Colby to issue the proclamation declaring the suffrage amendment ratified was made this afternoon by Miss Alice Paul, chairman of the national woman's party.

"The women asked that the proclamation be issued as soon as official notification of ratification is received in order that women may participate in the preliminary now being held in many states."

for years a fact. In no other country has a harder or longer struggle been needed in order to secure real political democracy. Women are happy at this victory, but they are also very disappointed. They are disappointed at the fact that the suffrage amendment was not passed by the thirty-sixth state, but they are proud to have been a soldier in the women's war for independence and to have lived to witness the ratification of the suffrage amendment by the thirty-sixth state, the result of the magnificent and patriotic action of American women.

MRS. O. H. BEAUMONT, member National Woman's party—Women have won the first long in their fight for full equality with men through the victory of the suffrage amendment. We must now go forward with purpose, ending discriminations against women in all fields of endeavor, strengthened in our purpose by the consciousness of the victory won today.

We must now go forward with purpose, ending discriminations against women in all fields of endeavor, strengthened in our purpose by the consciousness of the victory won today.

27,000,000 Women Have Same Civic Rights as Men

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Ratification of the suffrage amendment to the Constitution ends a struggle which began in this country before the Colonies declared their independence. It will eventually enfranchise about 17,000,000 women.

Woman suffrage first raised its voice in America in Maryland in 1647 when Margaret Brent, heret of Lord Calvert, demanded a place in the legislature of the colony as a property holder of wide extent. And in the days of the Revolution Abigail Adams wrote her husband John Adams at the Continental Congress which was framing the laws of the infant nation that "if—in the new laws—particular care and attention were not given to the rights of women, determined to foment a rebellion and will not hold ourselves bound to obey any laws in which we have no voice."

Organized work for woman suffrage began in the United States with the Woman's Rights Convention in Seneca Falls, N. Y., 1848, which was called by Lurinda Moten and Elizabeth Cady Stanton, early leaders of Massachusetts and New York, in response to the indignation aroused by the refusal to permit women to take part in the anti-slavery convention of 1840. From the date of that convention the suffrage movement in the United States began the fight that lasted seventy years and ended with victory. Another convention followed in 1852 at Syracuse, N. Y., at which delegates from Canada were present and it was decided to form a National American Woman Suffrage Association which assumed leadership of the cause to which she devoted her life.

ORGANIZATION EXTENDED.—In 1869 the National Woman Suffrage Association with Miss Anthony and Mrs. Stanton at its head was formed in New York and in the same year the American Woman Suffrage Association was organized in Cleveland with Lucy Stone and Julia Ward Howe as its leaders. At first differing widely in policy, the National Association working to put a suffrage amendment through the federal Congress and its sister organization working its efforts to convert the country state by state, the two associations later united under the name of the National Woman Suffrage Association. The association's drive for the vote was led in turn by Mrs. Stanton, Miss Anthony, Dr. Anna Howard Shaw and Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, latter of whom is now its president.

MISS ANTHONY'S WORK.—The nineteenth amendment, which bears her name, was drafted by Miss Anthony and has been successfully introduced in Congress in 1878 by Senator A. A. Sargent of California, and it is in the same language that the principle of the national law reads: "Article 1. Section 1. The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of race, color, or sex."

"Section 2. Congress shall have power, by appropriate legislation, to enforce the provisions of this article." The amendment was slowly introduced before the country longed for it. It was not until 1919 that it was adopted by the states. It was introduced as the sixteenth amendment and has been successfully introduced in 1878, 1889, 1890, 1891, 1892, 1893, 1894, 1895, 1896, 1897, 1898, 1899, 1900, 1901, 1902, 1903, 1904, 1905, 1906, THE FIRST PROBLEM.

Tonight the Committee of Twenty-one, created at the joint conference of August 5, to study the problem of proposed consolidation of county and city government in Alameda County, will hold its first meeting. The committee will map out tonight its plan of procedure and outline the objects it will aim at in the performance of its labors.

Undoubtedly the committee, having a known high regard for the fact of Eastbay unity of purpose and action, whether expressed informally or officially, will set itself at the very beginning to examine the possible results of a consolidation election. The people of all the communities and the country districts in Alameda county would like to know whether, in case a consolidation election should fail to record a favorable verdict of all the communities and districts and show an adverse determination on the part of one or more communities, county division would result.

Mindful of the efforts to promote county division in the past, the people want to know whether dangers of such a misfortune lurk anywhere in the latest agitation for county consolidation. They expect the Committee of Twenty-one to ascertain the truth in an expert and thoroughly reliable manner, and to make the information public.

This would seem to be the proper first goal of the special committee—to determine whether a program of acts inaugurated by a special voters' election might result in county division, or even the dangers of county divisions. After this question is settled it may or may not be appropriate to endeavor to formulate plan of consolidation which all the municipalities and the outlying districts certainly will accept. The work before the committee is of highly important public interest and the public will not be impatient if carefulness and precision mark its proceedings.

WHAT OF THE DEAD?

Hon. Elihu Root, former Secretary of State, and one of the world's leading statesmen, is now in Paris, after a tour of inspection of the devastated regions of the war zone. He went to France from The Hague, where he attended, as the American representative, the conference of the leading jurists of the world to formulate plans for the International Court of Justice provided for in the treaty of Versailles.

French newspapers have made repeated efforts to obtain statements from Mr. Root for publication, but the noted American and Republican leader has consistently pointed out that he cannot discuss international or American political affairs while on his present mission in Europe. Mr. Root's diffidence in this respect is due to the fact that he considers it would be indelicate to give rise to any political effects while discharging a duty assigned to him by President Wilson. It may be that the same feeling will constrain him to reticence after his return home, but it would interest many of his fellow countrymen if he would give candid impressions of European conditions.

Regarding his visit to the French battlefields, a Matin of Paris quotes Mr. Root as saying they gave him a sense of desolation such as he had never imagined. He visited the American cemetery at Romagne. He might tell the feelings that were created. On that trip he was accompanied by a representative of Le Liberte of Paris, who wrote a stirring article and from which we quote the following:

"On the edge of the forest of the Argonne, near the ruins of Nantillois, I saw a great American army. It was camped for eternity. There they were, 28,000 strong, drawn up for a review which the generations of the future will pass in review. Twenty-eight thousand white crosses, stretched their arms above the immaculate field which equalizes all those it covers with its green carpet. Over at Saint Mihiel, at Verdun, at Chateau Thierry, and twenty other places, in the shadow of the same white crosses, are the sons of the great sister nation.

"The French bow before these tombs with great respect.

"But what are the living doing? The war is not yet established. Is it possible they died in vain? Why is their work not completed? It would be false to the memory of the war dead to allow their death to be useless."

Graphically has the message of the dead been translated by this writer. Candidates for the Presidency in the United States are exploiting beyond all rational measure the differences of political opinion as to what the peace treaty perpetuating the victory these heroes died in winning ought to be. If the candidates themselves and all the partisans on each side in the peace controversy could visit these leveling tumuli of American youth who died for America's safety and honor, the controversy would be dissolved.

The President has abandoned the war dead and the war's high decisions in the hope of confirming his ideas about the future government of the universe. A faction in the Senate has made the President's dereliction the provocation for ignoring the urgent call for a settlement of the war issues and the confirmation of the victory won.

The people of the United States may vote for one candidate or another, but the result will not wipe out the shame of America's abandonment of the cause for which her soldiers died, nor lift black responsibility from the shoulders of a single person connected with the abandonment.

TO BANISH INDECENCY.

In his first appearance before the student body of the University of California for this school year President David P. Barrows would have seemed to have made plain for the benefit of a certain comparatively small element at Berkeley his intention to put an end to all toleration of campus indecency. From the tone of the address it would seem that he had in mind certain episodes and instances in the last half-year when he said:

"Slackers and stragglers from the path of morality have no place in the University of California," and when he added that college plays and college publications must not contain anything of an offensive nature.

If there is any one thing that has attracted critical attention to the university at Berkeley it is the lack of intelligent censorship given the campus "humorous" paper, and, also, to the senior extravaganza. So flagrant have the violations of the morals and decencies been that women students have voiced their protests outside of the campus and an organization of Berkeley citizens, not reformers, but business men, have sought to have "fined down" the student expressions.

There is logical argument favoring a certain amount of freedom of speech in a university to which is attracted men and women from all parts of the world, but even the most rabid proponent of "free speech" does not include in his ordinary definition the license to publish downright nastiness.

"Keep your lives clean and wholesome," said Dr. Barrows. "Remember that this is not a camp of men. Vulgarity and grossness must be banished."

The words of the president of the university will meet with general favor, and particularly by those who are sending their sons and daughters to Berkeley for an education.

THE OLD THREAT OF TREASON.

Although reduced to a very small minority in the elections last winter, the French Socialists seem still disposed to mischief-making and embarrassment of the government. Their attitude probably was quite accurately presented by the declaration of M. Cochon, leader of the Socialist bloc in the Chamber of Deputies, that the Socialists would start a revolution if France mobilized any military forces to oppose the Bolshevik conspiracy in Russia.

A report from Moscow, via Berlin, is to the effect that the Soviet leaders are contemplating a declaration of war against France, so it is not difficult to see the situation into which the Socialists are apt to be led. It will not be substantially different from the situation they found themselves in when Germany opened war against their country in 1914.

On the day before the German declaration of war, representatives of the French Socialists were in Brussels in conference with Herr Muller, member of the German reichstag, listening to the dishonest proposals of their Teutonic comrade to withhold their support from proposals of war credits. Pathetic though it is, they left Belgium a few hours before the war broke not knowing whether they would stand with Germany or with France in the certain conflict.

The shameful record of the conversations of the French Socialists with their country's enemy in 1914 was the sole cause of the heavy losses in the last parliamentary elections. Now they are indulging the same tactics with reference to the Russian Bolsheviks that they perpetrated in the fatal summer of 1914.

The threat of a revolution is an example of the extremes of treason to which the Socialists would go if the loyal majority of a nation was not equal to the stern tasks of controlling them in time of national peril.

The national administration at Washington has enquired of the British and French governments whether it is their intention to bar American capitalists from securing operative control of oil lands in the foreign countries regarding which England and France have agreed to maintain a practical oil monopoly. To avoid being convicted of continued and continuing hypocrisy it is incumbent upon the administration now to declare that it will protect American citizens who establish business interests in foreign countries. In view of its long-established and consistent policy of repudiation of the American business man abroad the administration ought to speak at once:

NOTES and COMMENT

* Added to those new coal bunkers the coal companies are to erect on the waterfront are those that are to be built on the links of the new country club in Berkeley.

* Many stopped to moralize when they learned that the "for rent" sign hangs on Berkeley's "love pact" home, but a great many more hastened to see if they could lease the place before someone else.

* Those who read that a bald-headed tumbler won first prize should be informed that this was no athletic contest for the middle-aged but a pigeon show.

* The sailor who drank the juice out of a compass discovered that he was not only mixed in his own directions but that he had done as much for everyone on the ship.

* San Francisco cleaners complain that Oakland men are cutting in on their field. Well, somebody ought to clean San Francisco.

* There is one shell game that is on the square, and that is the Petaluma egg fete.

* There is an air of reckless abandon in the story of the Alameda woman who "saw an abandoned roadster by the side of the road in a semi-abandoned spot."

* They are arresting students at the University of California who speed automobiles through the campus. Rapidity in classwork, it is pointed out, still holds no worse penalty than Phi Beta Kappa.

* This would seem no more than right: express rates, says a circular, are to be raised only in express conditions.

* The troubles in the Coast league seem to have been caused by a surplus of ambition. Certain players, wearied of throwing the ball, have taken to throwing the game.

* Latest reports from Premier Grabski are that he had grabbed no more than his portmanteau and his train out of Warsaw.

* The Rio Vista River News reflects the state of business rivalry in its community: "Due to the fact that the River News correspondent at Isleton has been wearing on the nerves of an erstwhile competing publication, by virtue of news items appearing in these columns, this self-same individual took it upon himself to figure out who this party might be. The matter of compensation being gleaned he, in true financial style, proceeded to denounce the amount. It matters little to the editor of the River News how much is bid for this service for we are ably fortified to outbid his Pecksniffian methods."

* It may be said of the heroic Mr. Babe Ruth that no other man in public life has done so much to put the word "home" on the sporting page.

* The juror who went to sleep during a trial at Martinez should be excused on the ground that even justice sometimes nods.

* Due to labor troubles and the high cost of material the Red Duff Sentinel has discontinued publication and is now merged with the News of that city. Had it been a case of a lone Sentinel the sprightly sheet might have continued. There is something sad in the passing of a newspaper and the Sentinel goes out with many regrets.

* A lot of men who hesitate at painting the life make no bones of whitewashing a political record.

* Those who have nothing else to do might stir up a little interest in the long distance silence contest between Mitch Palmer and Bill Bryan.

* Advice to those who contemplate wearing paper suits: have your wife read the material before it is made into a garment.

* Those who know who Aaron S. Watkins is will please stand? For the benefit of the large number remaining seated it may be said he is candidate for the presidency on the Prohibition ticket.

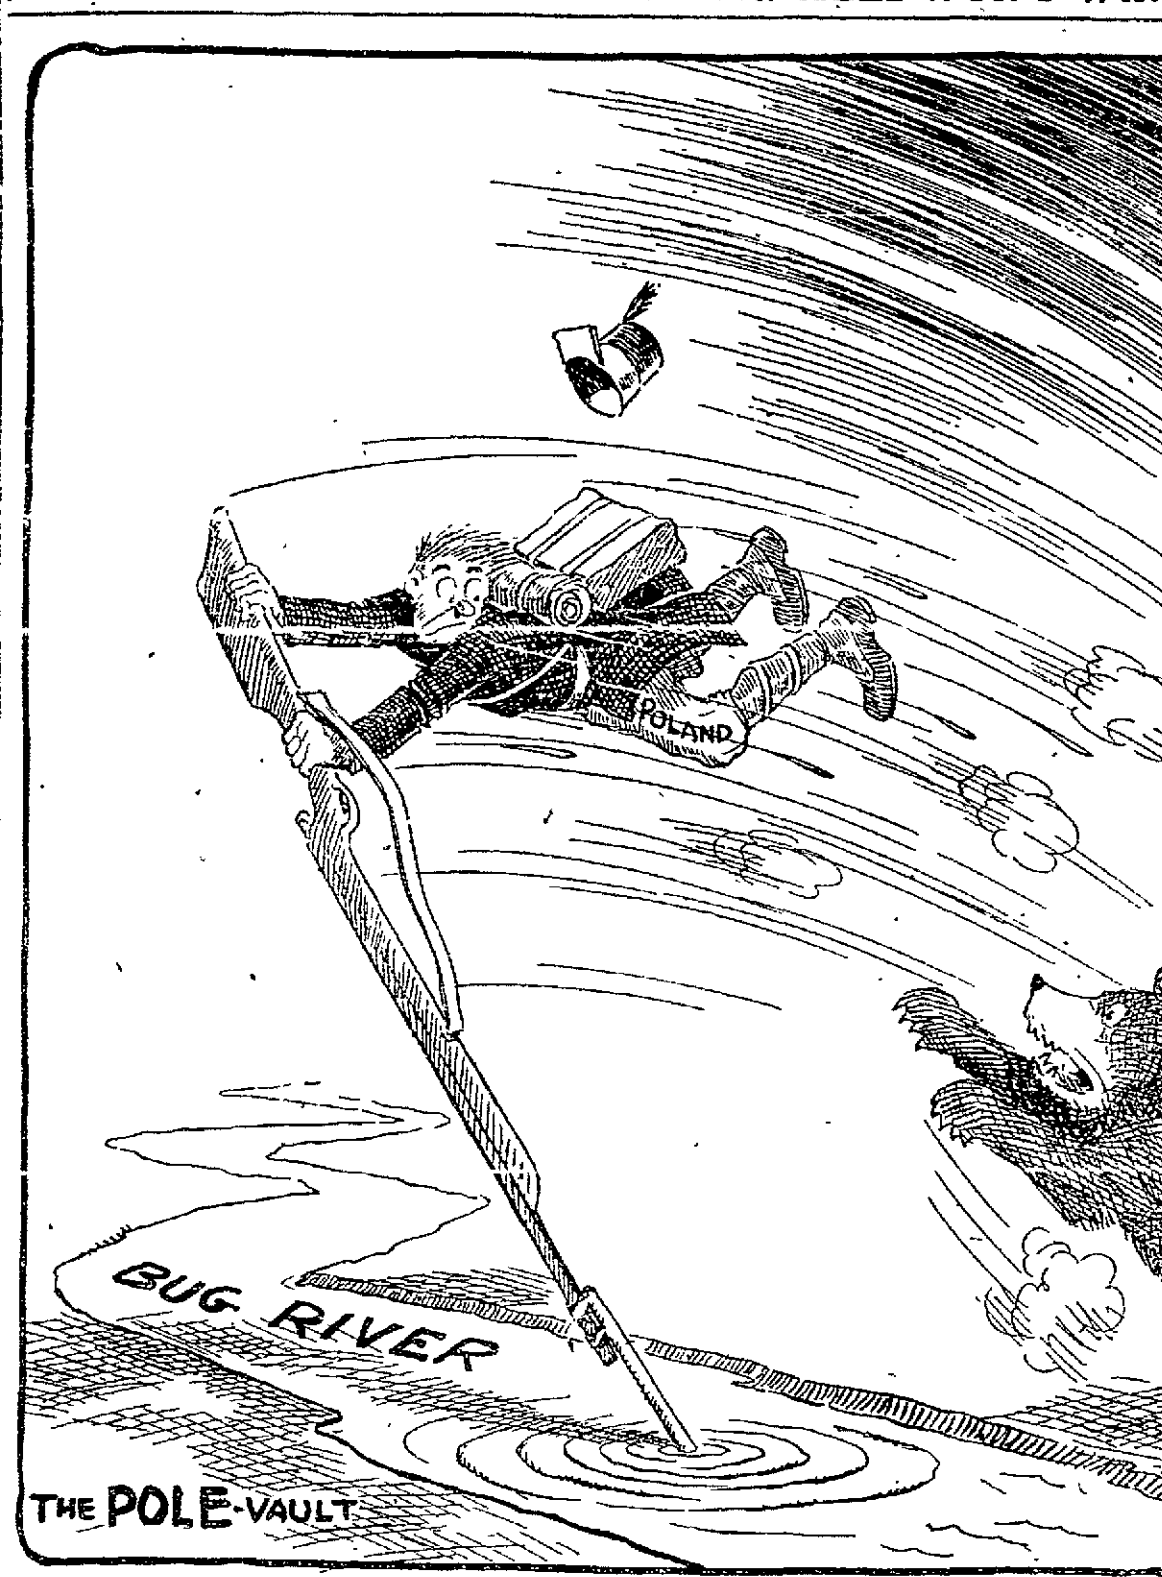

SPIRIT of the STATE PRESS

The famous Shawmut mine, for many years one of the steady gold producers of Tuolumne county, has closed down, temporarily at least, and a large force of men will be thrown out of employment. Thousands of tons of milling ore have been blocked out, which under ordinary conditions could not be worked to a profit. The advancing cost of production, with no increase in the value of the product, preclude the working at present.—Calaveras Prospect.

Alfred Ayala drove in town yesterday from his place in the Mihiels. He had been fighting the big fire for ten days and says it "was some hot fight." They got the best of it a little over five miles from where it started. Mostly brush and some wild oats were destroyed; no timber.—Kling City Rustler.

Somebody is always trying to comfort us in our afflictions as Job very well knew. The public is being told now that what it must pay for increased railroad rates will actually bring down the cost of living because of the increased efficiency developed under the new program. That's all right and sounds reasonable, but the public has grown too used to catching it coming and going to have any faith in these soothing syrups.—Stockton Record.

TABOO BUTTONS.

When I was in Constantinople I made friends with several of the pariah dogs that roved the streets; and though they had their drawbacks, it always seemed to me that they were likable beasts, and not so great a nuisance as one would suppose they must be. I was there for a long time, and I learned that the Remorseless March of Progress had led to the determination to get rid of them. You will remember that the poor dogs were shipped off to various islands and there left to die, because the Turk would not transgress against his religion by killing them outright. That was five or six years ago and apparently the unhappy dogs all met their inevitable fate. Today members of Russian refugees are housed on the islands which were formerly the dogs' prison, and the American Red Cross authorities, who are caring for these particular refugees, have set their proteges to work at making buttons from the dogs' bones. I am not altogether surprised to learn that the Turks will not buy the buttons.—Near East.

DISSONANCE.

Open a window on the world with all its griefs, and then When he has heard that sound a space Close it fast again.

Sweet will it be, lapped round with ease And music-troubled air, To hear for a moment on the wind A sound of far despair:

And then, to turn to lights again. And fingers soft on strings. While she slips her bracelets off And spreads her arms and sings.

Sweet will it be to hear far off That gusty sound of pain. And to remember, far away, A world of death and rain.

And then to close the window fast. And laugh, and elap soft hands. While girls from Tal and Mozambique Parade in sarabands.

Close now the window. Close it well. That slow lament of pain. Was but the dissonance that makes make

HEALTH and HAPPINESS

A Correct Diet Real Remedy for Bright's Disease.

By DR. LEONARD K. HIRSBERG.
A. B., M. A., M. D.
(Johns Hopkins University.)

Nephritis or Bright's disease is not one disease, but several different, destructive disorders of the kidneys. The structure of these elements of animal anatomy is eaten into and wasted much as is the pulp of an apple. You can as easily restore the lost pulp of the apple as "cure" Bright's disease.

What you can do is to diet and live a regulated existence to prevent the loss of more kidney pulp.

Meats, eggs, peppers, spices, salt, cheese, nuts, booze and heavy vegetables may be guilty of kidney strain. Vegetarians and fasters, nevertheless, will find no balm in Gilead in these acts, because too much water as well as plant proteins in excess cause nephritis as well as meat.

There is no more "cure" for Bright's disease than there is for the loss of an arm. You can get along just the same under either circumstance—all the better without an eye or an arm, because you are not so quibble as to try to restore what you know is gone, but, not forgotten.

Forget you have kidney disease. Order your mode of existence as other men have done. The simple life, without much food, much worry, much excitement, or exposure to contagions and excesses, will free you of any influence of an abbreviated career, no matter how severe your chronic kidney malady has been.

The cost of mining anthracite is $3.31 a ton, with all the increases added in to get the top figures. The cost of that coal to the Worcester family is $13.31 per ton, a difference of $10. So the coal bin is the most expensive apartment of the house. Its black and non-decorative furnishings are more expensive than those kept in the drawing room. It is not protected from the devouring flames by the city fire department. No insurance company protects it with a policy.

And coal at ten dollars a ton above the mine price burns up as quickly as the brush in a cut-over woodlot. —Worcester Telegram.

Germans Slain In Fight With French Troops

LONDON, Aug. 18.—Nine Germans, including two officers of the security police, and a French trooper were killed in a clash between strikers and French soldiers at Katowice, in upper Silesia, said a Reuters despatch from Berlin today.

The fighting started when German workers, who had gone on strike against the handing of Polish munitions, attacked the French, killing a French soldier.

The French turned machine guns against the strikers and used gas. In addition to the dead 26 men were wounded.

Dr. Milowski, a lawyer and leader of the Poles at Katowice, threw a bomb from the window of his home. He was dragged out and killed in the street.

The Katowice police threw down their arms and made no effort to restore order, it is said.

After a period of sharp fighting French officers conferred with the leaders of the strikers and the French troops were withdrawn.

BERLIN, Aug. 18.—Uninterrupted rifle and hand grenade explosions were reported to be proceeding at a m. at Katowice, Upper Silesia, where serious fighting occurred last night between French troops and civilians, who struck in protest against the Russian-Polish war and demanded disarmament of the occupational troops.

Another report said the occupational troops were prepared to deliver their arms to the city security police. A trade union delegation last night entered into direct negotiations with the interallied commission and demanded disarmament of the occupational forces. The delegates offered safe conduct for the troops on their departure. The French military commandant, Col. Placard, said he would rather die than agree to this, according to the report.

CITY ATTORNEYS

One of the public treasury it means the continuance of a part of the present burdensome taxation under which there is inequality, great expense of collection and much evasion or failure to return taxes collected, in addition to the furnishing of excuses for both large and petty profiteering.

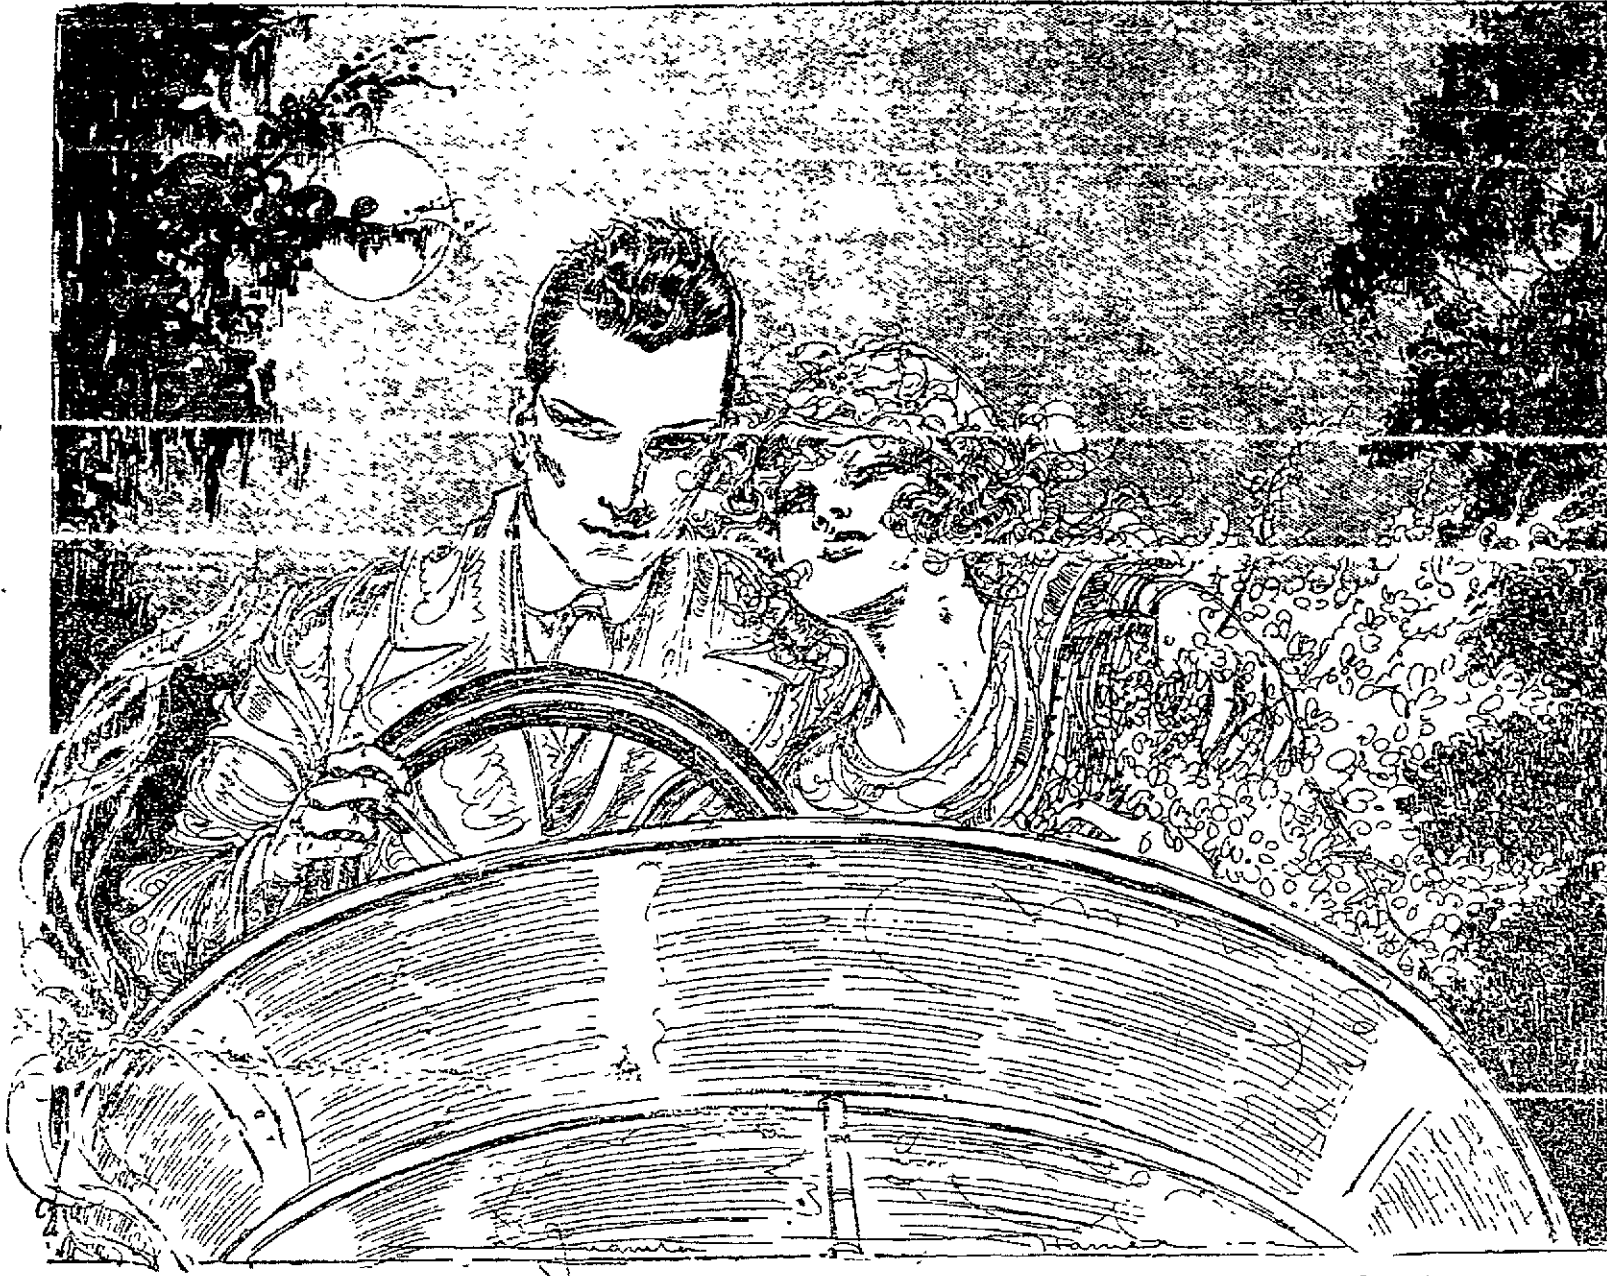

NO REDRESS, SAY LAWYERS
That the matter might be brought up for reconsideration by an application to the Railroad Commission for a reduction in the rates of the Key Route, was one possibility line of action suggested by Frank Cornish, city attorney of Berkeley, although he did not express the belief that this would be done.

Because the Interstate Commerce Commission expressed in its order for reconstruction regulations the principle that all excessive profits on lines should be turned in to offset losses in other places, Cornish holds that the rate system of the bay will be one of those places to be called upon to bear the weight of burden for other sections.

In the matter of freight, Cornish says that the rate of freight is a factor in the cost of goods, and that there is no way to make repatriation to passengers grounds for a contest may exist.

CASE SET FOR SETTLEMENT
"I don't believe there is anything we can do," said City Attorney William J. Jones of Alameda. "The police seem to be to render a decision and then an application to the commission for a reduction in the rates of the Key Route, was one possibility line of action suggested by Frank Cornish, city attorney of Berkeley, although he did not express the belief that this would be done."

SAN JOSE, Aug. 18.—With the appearance of two more candidates for the office of grand second vice-president there was a quickening of interest on the part of delegates in the annual election, which will be held by the grand council of the Y. It seemed, George found, that there was a hole in the bottom of the gasoline tank. The motor and his passenger scratched their heads. Chewing gum would plug the hole, but it was right miles to the nearest gas station.

SEEPAGE RUINS BUTTE ROADS
CHICO, Aug. 18.—Supervisor F. L. Roehr will oppose further expenditure of bond money in the rice areas until the present drainage laws are complied with by rice growers and an ordinance is passed requiring all new rice drainage systems to secure the approval of the county road engineer before being installed.

Since the advent of the rice industry in Butte county much money has been spent on roads in rice districts which have been the cause of seepage which floods the right of way the year round. The water seeps through the sides of the road and the crown drops when the foundation is loosened.

DYNAMITE SENT GIRL IN LETTER, SOLDIER ADMITS

It was mailed from the Camp Kearny guard house by Private Jack Kern, a prisoner. The dynamite was shipped from a stock and was mailed in a letter. There was enough, police said, "to blow a person's head off."

The letter ended with a postscript which said, according to the police, "I am sending you a little dynamite, if you are tired of living."

Kern, scared at what he had done, came to officers at the guard house, who in turn notified the postal authorities and the police.

Charging the City Council with dilatory tactics on the question, Dr. Kirby Smith, health officer, this morning announced that he will prepare a communication urging on the city heads the immediate necessity of providing for sanitary comfort stations throughout the city. In his statement Dr. Smith declared that the condition caused by the absence of such conveniences in the city is a "shame and a disgrace."

In reviewing the situation, Dr. Smith outlined a plan for the establishment of comfort stations in all of the city parks and at numerous points throughout the city. AGNEW APPEAL
BEFORE CIVIL SERVICE BOARD

With acting Captain of Inspectors James Drew the chief witness, the prosecution last night opened in the hearing before the civil service board of the appeal filed by Inspector Lou F. Agnew from the dismissal of Commissioner Morse. Missing him from the police department for alleged guilty knowledge of the disappearance of $750 worth of drugs.

After a session of more than two hours the hearing was continued to Friday night, August 27. City Attorney H. L. Hagen appeared for Agnew and former District Attorney Morse and Attorney Oliver D. Hamilton for the dismissed inspector.

After a short examination of Harold D. Richard, steward at the emergency hospital, who told of a receipt of the bag containing a tin of cocaine and a tin of morphine at the hospital on December 15, 1919, Captain Drew, who was at that time night captain of the police, was called.

He testified that he had dispatched Inspector William Emigh to the hospital when the tin came on the case, and Emigh brought the bag of "done" to the police station in the presence of Drew, Emigh and Inspector Robert Tracy.

DRUG PUT IN DESK.

Emigh and Tracy were directed to make out tags describing the property, and the tags were brought back to the private office at 2:30 o'clock and left on the sliding shelf of Captain Petersen's desk, and the following evening Captain Petersen took the bag in his locker.

The next development in the case occurred on March 22, according to

Pacific Coast
Living Cheaper
Than in East

The cost of living is cheaper on the Pacific Coast than in the East, Howard Figg, representing the United States Department of Justice in the anti-high cost of living campaign, told delegates from Oakland, Berkeley, San Leandro and San Francisco to the California Federation of Housewives' Leagues, meeting yesterday in San Francisco. Co-operation of the merchants and activities of the housewives' leagues was advanced by Figg as the reason for difference in prices.

Of the 1890 cases prosecuted under the Lever act, 60 per cent culminated in a verdict of guilt, according to Figg, who claimed that when all the cases were completed the total convictions will amount to fully 90 per cent. He urged the women to continue co-operation with the merchants in buying necessities, and making no demands upon them to stock up with luxuries at this time. The machinery of the department which he represented was placed at the disposal of the league leaders.

Drew, three days after the discharge of Captain Petersen, when the latter turned property in his locker over to Property Clerk Sergeant Frank Abern. At that time, Drew testified, he noticed that the description tag was typewritten, and after the bag had been sent to Abern's office he went there to look at the tag and then discovered, on opening the bag, that five bottles of morphine were missing and the tin of cocaine.

RECORDS WERE DESTROYED.

In relation to the charge of Commissioner Morse that Inspector Agnew had destroyed certain police records, Drew testified that during the month of January or February he had occasion to ask Agnew for some old night reports and was told by Agnew that they had been destroyed as they were more than a month old. The report on the drug case was among them.

The defense brought out that although Drew had discovered the shortage in the bag of drugs on March 22, he made no report to anyone of the fact and the shortage was not discovered until the case had been heard in the police court and called for trial before the superior court on June 12.

Both direct and cross-examination of Drew were completed last night.

YOUNG WOMAN
STEPS IN AUTO'S
PATH, PERISHES

Miss Helen Hirschelmer, 27 years old, of 2121 Eighth avenue, is dead today the victim of an auto accident at Sixteen and Valencia streets, San Francisco, in which she was struck down by a machine driven by Robert Pantot of 1245 Gough street.

Pantot is under arrest on a charge of manslaughter.

Miss Hirschelmer was taken to the Central Emergency Hospital where she died a few minutes after her arrival. She never regained consciousness.

She was an employee of the Mission Savings Bank and was on her way from work. She stepped directly into the path of Pantot's machine as she left the sidewalk to board a street car. Confused, she was struck before she could save herself.

The young woman lived with her aunt, Mrs. Rose Hammond on Eighth avenue. She was born in Ironwood, Mich., and is a graduate of the University of Washington. She came to Oakland about three years ago.

OVER EMBANKMENT.

Mrs. Josephine Betts of Salinas was killed and Mr. and Mrs. George G. Davidson of 828 O'Farrell street, San Francisco, were possibly fatally injured when the automobile in which they were riding plunged over an embankment on the Geyser Creek road, sixteen miles out of Healdsburg.

J. T. Davidson, driver of the car, and Donald Betts, 9-year-old son of Mrs. Betts, escaped uninjured.

The machine swung too close to the edge of the road in rounding a curve and the wheels slipped from the road precipitating it down a steep slope. It turned over three times in the descent.

THREE YOUTHS INJURED.

Three youths were injured yesterday afternoon, one possibly fatally, when the motor truck in which they were riding overturned as they rounded a corner at Sixth and Irving streets, San Francisco. Leslie Crabasso, 19, living at 640 Morgan street, San Francisco, was the most seriously injured. He sustained a fractured skull and possible internal injuries.

The others were Harold Kelly and Richard Brown who escaped with severe lacerations and bruises of the body.

H. E. Wallace, electrician for the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company, narrowly escaped death yesterday afternoon when a coupe belonging to Edward Elliott standing unoccupied started on a rampage down the Ridge Road hill in North Berkeley. Wallace was seated in a motor truck and was about to start it when he saw the coupe bearing down on him. He jumped from the machine just in time to be a safe witness to a crash which demolished both machines.

NAVY 'PLANE IS TOTAL WRECK IN GUALALA SURF

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—Navy seaplane No. 10, which landed at Gualala Saturday when its engines became disabled while flying from San Diego to San Francisco, was wrecked late last night in the surf, according to advice received this morning by Commander Wallace Berthoff. All of the crew in charge of Lieutenant Lyons were ashore, and are expected in San Francisco today.

"This morning I received a long distance telephone call from Gualala made by one of the officers of Plane No. 10," said Commander Berthoff, "advising me that the seaplane, after making a landing on the beach, had come close in shore and been totally destroyed. From the message I gathered the craft had not sunk but was piled up on the beach."

Word that the No. 10 was drifting down the coast was received last night and tugs were sent to rescue it. Early this morning came the message it had been destroyed.

This has been the first disaster to overtake any of the planes that participated in the endurance flight from San Diego to San Francisco. Four of the planes left Sausalito yesterday on their return.

Fourth Avenue was knocked out of the pavement and painfully injured by a car driven by William Larm, 3915 Thirtieth avenue. She was taken to the receiving hospital by Larm, and treated for minor injuries.

N. A. Nelson, a shipworker living at 6250 Hayes street, was struck last night by a machine driven by Paul Shepley, 438 Thirtieth street, at First Avenue and East Twelfth street. He suffered cuts and contusions about the head and chest.

RAMS CART, SPEEDS OFF.

BRENTWOOD, Aug. 18.—Search is today being conducted by police authorities for the motorist who crashed into the pony cart of sixteen-year-old Lois Robins of this town while she was driving in front of her home and speeded away without stopping to render aid. The girl was seriously injured.

HELD RESPONSIBLE.

SAN JOSE, Aug. 18.—William X. Field, 23, local banker and of an influential San Jose family, was held "wholly responsible through criminal negligence" for the death of 14-year-old Richard Buelna here last Friday night. The decision was made by a coroner's jury following a two-day investigation of the accident.

According to Deputy District Attorney Percy P. Connor, Field will be charged with manslaughter.

At the coroner's inquest, Mrs. Myrtle Curry and Frederick M. Smith, Field's companions, testified that Field was intoxicated and that he knew he hit the boy, but in answer to their pleas to stop and render aid he cursed and said, "No, let's beat it."

SPEEDERS ARRAIGNED.

PIEDMONT, Aug. 18.—Forty-seven speeders were arraigned before Police Judge George Burdick on the second day of Piedmont's campaign against speeders.

Enough different speed traps have been laid out in the city, according to Acting Chief of Police Fred Brown, that the same one will not be used more than once a month.

JONES HE DONE IT.
WORDS & AD.
MUSIC & POP.

(The motorist of the side of an automobile belonging to Captain Thorvald Brown at the Oakland police department, from Emeryville along the Southern Pacific tracks and up the incline at the Sixteenth-street station, is being investigated by Chief of Police J. Frank Lynch. Brown says the car was stolen on the night of August 1, that he followed its tracks from Emeryville and discovered it in its precarious position at the Southern Pacific station. The captain says a man named "Jones" is responsible for the theft and the epoch-making ride, but "Jones" has disappeared.)

Come Doctor Gilpin, Paul Revere,
And Sheridan, and such
The rides you took in other days—
They don't amount to much.

At Emeryville there stood a car,
A plain one to the eye,
Yet in its heart, or valves, was held
A wild desire to fly.

From open door a blaze of light,
A breath of new-drawn beer—
Behold the car in ecstasy,
A pilot doth appear!

The carburetor winked its eye,
The engine gave a cough,
The wheels they started kicking dust
'Twas "Jones" who said, "We're off."

The hand upon the wheel was firm
As any tempered bar,
The man who owned the hand said, "whee,
I'm an electric car!"

Except for this mistake of "Jones"
And that the track was rough
And that the tires kept blowing up
The ride was fair enough.

The tires were flat the rims were split
The engine never stopped,
But every time it gave a bark
Jones thought a cork had popped.

Take a million steam-pipes like
The ones in Casey's flat,
Multiply the noise by twelve
This one was worse than that.

They heard it up in Temescal,
And Hayward had a fright
And many thought ten shingle mills
Had blown up in the night.

The car kicked up a million sparks
And lots of noise beside,
"This curve," said "Jones," surveying it,
"Is set up on its side."

Then with a crashing louder than
Ten freight cars in a wreck
The auto climbed the incline where
It died upon the deck.

Jones disembarked and cocked his hat
And smoothed his troubled vest,
"Of all the S. P. trains," he said,
"I claim to be the best."

"But had I reached the mole," said Jones
Emotion in his throat,
"I was my intent to cross the bay
For I'm a ferry boat."

Then like a star that fades from view
When Phoebus shows his face,
"Jones" slipped a soused and mortal coil
And vanished into space.

Come Doctor Gilpin, Paul Revere,
And Sheridan and such,
The rides you took in other days—
They don't amount to much.

KIN, MOURNED, IS IN REDS' PRISON,
BAY MAN HEARS

After believing his brother dead for two years, Douglas R. Wilson, 3138 Eton avenue, Berkeley, now has received information tending to indicate that Professor William Wilson of the English department of the University of Petrograd, Russia, former private tutor of the Czar's children, still is alive and a prisoner of the Bolsheviks.

Dr. Robert M. Wilson of Aberdeen, Scotland, another brother, has written to Douglas Wilson, who is traveling auditor of the Western Drug Company and has resided in Berkeley for a number of years, saying that the English authorities are doing their utmost to obtain Professor Wilson's release, but because of his former relationship with the Czar's family the Bolshevik authorities are inclined to keep him in prison. Several times he has been ordered shot and once, according to the information from Scotland, he was at the point of being executed when orders came to keep him alive.

The information was contained in a letter sent to the family in Scotland after it had been smuggled out of Russia.

Japan Doesn't Want
War, Says MacCauley

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—"Japan knows that the United States is infinitely more powerful than she and there will never be a war between these two countries unless it is instigated by America," declared Dr. Clay MacCauley, for the past 30 years a resident of Tokyo, representing the American Unitarian Association. Dr. MacCauley has just returned here from Japan.

"Japan is at present in serious financial straits, the Japanese emperor is suffering from a nervous breakdown and there is certainly no inclination on the part of these people to go to war with the greatest potential military and naval force in the world."

"The Japanese see the need for limiting immigration, but do not want it done in such a way as will insult their national pride."

Dr. MacCauley will leave for Boston August 20. He was decorated by the emperor with the Order of the Rising Sun in 1909 and the Order of the Sacred Treasure in 1919.

The death of Hirschy was investigated by Police Inspectors Peter Van Houtte and R. M. Goodwin, who reported that he had undoubtedly died of natural causes. The body was taken to the morgue.

Why financial statements
increase confidence

THE FEDERAL RESERVE BANK requires that this bank have in its files at all times financial statements of borrowing customers.

A financial statement protects the borrower as much as it protects the bank. It gives the bank a knowledge of how the business is conducted and is a means of knowing whether the company is working at a profit or loss.

Very often when a loss is shown and the company does not seem to be prospering, the bank can find the cause, as well as a solution of the trouble and, as a consequence, start the business in the right direction.

A borrower should never hesitate to consult his banker when his business is losing money. It may be the means of turning a loss into profit.

Detailed statements increase the confidence of the bank officials in the man or the company borrowing money. Nothing of a financial nature should be concealed from a bank that is helping to build business.

This bank is always ready to aid in the building of the businesses of its customers.
